Board Reports

President Bill Garrett offered happy birthday wishes to Grossmont College President Sunny Cooke and Vice Chancellor Sue Rearic on behalf of everyone at the meeting.

Garrett commented on the joint Districtwide Strategic Planning and Budget Council and Governing Board meeting, which reviewed outcomes from the 2010-2011 Action Plans, held prior to the Governing Board meeting. He said it was amazing to note all of the past year's activities and accomplishments at the two colleges and the District. Garrett said he would urge everyone to continue to concentrate this year on "what we can do" and not on "what we can't do," showing the strong positive spirit that has defined the District.

Cuyamaca College Student Trustee Chuck Taylor and student government leaders attended a leadership retreat to enhance productivity, rework bylaws, adopt their calendar, and work on their budget for the coming year. Taylor thanked trustees for their support of the California Dream Act, and also asked for support of Assembly Bill 844, which would allow students to serve in any leadership capacity and remain eligible for all types of financial aid.

Trustees Greg Barr, Mary Kay Rosinski, Edwin Hiel, and Debbie Justeson offered congratulations to Grossmont College on a successful convocation and best of wishes to all employees and students for a great Fall term.

Flashback 50th Anniversary Convocation Wins Rave Reviews

Grossmont College's "1961 flashback" themed Fall Convocation was widely praised by Governing Board members, faculty, and staff. Attendees were encouraged to wear tie-dyed clothing and competed for prizes. Communications Specialist Anne Krueger created a slide show featuring the "grooviest" fashions on display.

Trustee Mary Kay Rosinski thanked everyone who put on the well-done event, saying the best part was seeing the eight original Grossmont College employees in attendance who started with the District 50 years ago when it was housed at a high school campus. Grossmont College President Sunny Cooke said the first employee, librarian Tom Hepp, and Trudy Bratten, the first female college vice president in southern California, were part of the group.

Chancellor's Report

Chancellor Cindy Miles reported that current fall enrollment stands at 23,957 students, down from 27,310 students last fall. Almost 200 fewer classes are being offered this fall, and classes are currently 92 percent full.

Miles said the automatic registration system has found space for 4,929 students on the wait list, but 23,242 still remain on the list. "I am very conscious of, sympathetic to, and grateful for the efforts going on," Miles said, specifically recognizing the work by Student Services, Admissions and Registration trying to serve all the students.

Managers and supervisors attended a District workshop at Cuyamaca College to come together as a team, work on developing a culture of trust, and to look at what's right with the world; and what we need to do as a team for next year. Miles thanked many people who helped put the program together, including the Administrators Association President Michael Copenhaver and planning team.

CBOC Shines as Model Program

Ron Asbury, chairman of the District's Citizens Bond Oversight Committee (CBOC), spoke to the Board about the committee's work. Asbury, a general contractor and East County resident of 40 years, said he spoke both as a taxpayer and a general contractor. He noted the Prop R program's eight-year history of clean audits and the track record of bringing projects in on time and often under budget.

Asbury thanked the Governing Board for its decisions, everyone at the District involved with Prop R construction, the colleges, general contractor Rudolph and Sletten, and the project management provided by Gafcon.

Asbury said the CBOC receives a new consolidated budget report that makes it easier for CBOC members to review financial data.

Board President Bill Garrett said that, from his experience as a founding member of the CBOC eight years ago, he recognized the great work coming from the committee.
