

CLASSIFIED PROFESSIONALS DAY

All classified professionals in the District were invited to participate in Classified Professionals Day March 26, put on by the Human Resources Department. The featured speaker was Dr. Marissa Pei, who led an interactive session on connecting as a community through a combination of personal development, appreciation and team building.

Workshop sessions included discussions about determining your core values; building relationship through community; building community from a student perspective; and communication as the foundation of community.

PUBLIC SAFETY HOLDS IDENTITY THEFT SEMINARS

Seminars on how to prevent identity theft, sponsored by the Public Safety Department, were held at Cuyamaca College on March 20 and at Grossmont College 21. The seminars were conducted by Glennis Gould, a crime prevention specialist with the San Diego County Sheriff's Department. They covered tips to help people from becoming a victim of identity theft or fraud scams.

DISTRICT WINS STATEWIDE MARKETING AWARDS

The district was honored Thursday with five PRO Awards from the Community College Public Relations Organization in recognition of exemplary marketing, communications, design and public relations efforts.

The college district's awards presented at CCPRO's annual conference held this year in Sacramento:

- First place for 2016-17 Annual Report
- Second place for piece on prison parolee-turned-Cuyamaca College-success-story Michael Ryan and third place for story on Cuyamaca College DACA student Iveth Estrada in Feature Writing category
- Second place for news release about Grossmont College classes at Las Colinas Detention Facility
- Second place in College Promotional Video category for career education video